DAYTON, Ohio, June 5, 1969 --- If the title, "Unhealthy to be Unpleasant", sounds a bit "whacky" to you. You are right. The hilarious comedy, written by James Kirkwood, is the next production of the University of Dayton Players at the Kennedy Union's Boll Theater on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 13-14-15, at 8:30 p.m.

The play, which is being directed by Lawrence Selka, was described by the New York critics as "a whacky organization dedicated to righting the world's ills by summary extermination of all the nasty people in it " and "zany intentions and a maniac eye with overtones of 'You Can't Take It With You' compounded with flagrant insanity of Olsen and Johnson."

This final presentation of the UD Players for the 1968-69 season has a cast drawn from the UD staff, faculty and student body. Among its many funny scenes is the frequent desire of J. Francis Amber, an actor played by Sonny Bell, to hold his 94-year-old mother, portrayed by Maggie Brock, upside down "to get the blood swirling in her grey matter."
